Whether it's something as common as a sprained ankle, as joyous as delivering a healthy baby or as serious as a stroke, physicians will be there for you and your family.

Our 11,000 members not only treat your urgent needs, but promote ways to prevent serious health problems. That's why the Wisconsin Medical Society is out in front—working to improve our health care system by making it more accessible, more cost-effective and more focused on the needs of patients.

Nobody knows more about medicine than your doctor.
